

Martin May is a trainer and coach at Non-Invasive Personality Analysis Institute. His main responsibilities are to create a development strategy for the institute, find new clients and establish strategic partnerships. He is also a shareholder of Click-Lights with the function of Sales Director. He started to gain an experience as a full-time employee doing sales and dealing with area sales representatives. At the age of 23, he started his own venture, a little clothes shop. Since then he was running a car workshop, selling over the phone for telemarketing agency, got involved in network marketing, importing wines from Hungary to the UK and finally finding his place at competence development and became a coach.

Martin successfully completed 8 months training course led by Dariusz Tarczynski PhD the founder of INAO and become a certified trainer. Now he is also a Business Development Director of INAO UK and trained organizations and businesses like Global Investor Club, Alute, Cooltura, Polish Radio London. He is also a volunteer at Polish Psychologist Association helping people make careers decisions and move forward with their projects.
